

MOVIEGRAMS FROM SCREEN TO PATRON

CONCEPTIONS of beauty differ according to geographical location, environment and taste. The ancient Greeks preferred the athletic type of woman. The Chinese formerly judged a woman beautiful on her own account. The American people, however, prefer a woman beautiful in her own right. The American people, however, prefer a woman beautiful in her own right. The American people, however, prefer a woman beautiful in her own right.

MICHAEL MORTON, who wrote the original play "On With the Dance," has produced for Paramount Artcraft, a production for the well-known author of a score of dramatic hits and was for some time producer connected with His Majesty's Theatre, London.

MARY MILES MINTER, very young and very beautiful, naturally is interested in clothes. She is like other young girls in liking constantly to have new and lovely apparel.

THE reason Europeans like motion pictures made in the United States, and go to see them in preference to those made in their native countries is furnished by George Gauthier de Triegny, the Belgian star who portrays the important character of the Countess in "The Strongest."

THE Mark Sennett studios at Los Angeles, where "Down to the Farm," which has its initial Philadelphia showing at the Metropolitan Opera House next Saturday, was produced, are places of interest to the Philadelphia audience.

NORMA TALMADGE will appear at the Stanley week of May 31 in her first National picture, entitled "The Woman Gives," an adaptation of Owen Johnson's novel. The star appears in the role of Ima Sanderson, a model.

Guide to Photoplays for the Week to Come

STANLEY—"Why Change Your Wife?" remains for a third week of its successful run. The story is by Thomas Meighan, Gloria Swanson and Bob Daniels. Directed by Cecil B. DeMille, it shows marital life.

PALACE—"The Virgin of Stamboul" has Fricella Dean as the star. The play is a very good one, as seen at a private exhibition. The story deals with the rescue of a girl who is sought after by a sultan. Wheeler Oakman is the chief player. Booth Tarkington's Goldenrod story of "Edgar's Jonah Day" is added.

ARCADIA—"Nurse Marjorie" brings Mary Miles Minter in her best play. As seen at a private showing, it is a story of a girl who is sought after by a sultan. Wheeler Oakman is the chief player. Booth Tarkington's Goldenrod story of "Edgar's Jonah Day" is added.

VICTORIA—"The Strongest" is made from a play by Georges Clemenceau, and tells of a French man and an American boy who marries the girl, who is stranded. R. A. Walsh directed the play.

LEGENT—"A Modern Salome" has Hope Hampton as the new star. The play is a very good one, as seen at a private exhibition. The story deals with the rescue of a girl who is sought after by a sultan. Wheeler Oakman is the chief player. Booth Tarkington's Goldenrod story of "Edgar's Jonah Day" is added.

ROYALTY—"The Sagebrusher" features Roy Stewart in the story by Eugene O'Neill. The plot deals with the love of a man for a woman who is his wife in name only. Betty Brice is the woman.

COLONIAL—"The Forbidden Woman," with Norma Talmdge, tells first half of a story. "The Right Way," with Bert Lottel, last half.

GREAT NORTHERN—"The Cyclone," with Owen Moore, last half. "The Cyclone," with Owen Moore, last half.

IMPERIAL—"A Daughter of the Gods," with Annette Kellerman. "Sooner or Later," with Owen Moore, last half.

ALHAMBRA—"The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," with Jack Pickford. "Terror Island," with Houdini, last half.

MARRET STREET—"The Lone Wolf," with Louise Glaum. "The Cyclone," with Owen Moore, last half.

STRAND—"The Dancin' Fool," with Wallace Reid, Bob Daniels. Reviewed favorably.

Special Photoplays
GARRICK—"On With the Dance," with Mae Murray and David Powell as chief players. George Fitzmaurice directed it. A pre-viewer claims it to be an exceptional production from all angles, especially the beauty of the settings and photography. The story deals with an immigrant girl who dances her way to fame in a cabaret and later finds her true mission with the aid of the love of a good man. The story is laid in New York. Added attractions will be the showing of the pictures taken during the exploits of the German raider "Moose."

METROPOLITAN OPERA HOUSE—"Down to the Farm," five reels of Mack Sennett comes as part of an all-comedy bill. Marie Prevost, Turpin and other favorite Sennett film players are in the cast. The producer has originated a number of startling surprises of a humorous and sensational character, which enliven the rustic and sentimental episodes. Opens next Saturday and continues the following week.
